Meet The Jeepster

The latest member of the Jeep family is Willys-Overland's newly unveiled sports phaeton, the Jeepster. Styled in the continental fashion, the car is a glamorous, smooth-riding descendant of its rugged forbear and is one of the first full-sized light cars to appear on the market. It is powered by the Jeep engine, and has independent front wheel suspension. The Jeepster weighs only 2300 pounds, gives as much as 29 miles to a gallon and has a low center of gravity for roadability. Willys-Overland calls it "a sun car built for fun."

It is with pleasure that I express my thanks to the people of Elba for their generous contributions to my fund for the purpose of buying a tent and equipment for traveling evangelistic work. Of the $16,000 needed to buy the tent and equipment, we now have raised $10,500.00. It is our hope and prayers that the other will be raised at an early date and we can begin our work.

We propose to buy a tent and equipment for seating 1575 people. 2000 song books, piano, public address system, Hammond organ and lighting equipment are some of the items we have already in our possession. Others are on order. We hope it won't be long until we can be back in Elba to put on a series of meetings.

The contributions of people in Elba, as well as in other towns are making possible the realization of a long time ambition of the evangelist, W. A. Boone, an Alabama Baptist preacher for 25 years. It is my sincere desire to prove worthy of this great task.

More contributions are still needed for this work. If you did not have a chance to contribute, or have decided to add a little more to your contribution please mail it to: The Evangelist, W. A. Boone, Box 503, Blue Mountain, Alabama.

SEED OATS SHORT
Farmers who don't have seed oats should get them as soon as possible. Don't forget to treat seed oats for smut with commercial seed treatment according to use, for formaldehyde treatment, explains J. C. Lowery, API extension agronomist.

DON'T MIX CORN
Commercial buyers do not want mixed corn. Test is true whether the corn is to be used for feed or in making meal and grits. Farmers should take special precautions to prevent mechanical mixing while harvesting or during storage.

Produce Sheep For More Farm Income
Again in 1948, as in previous years, sheep have proven to be one of the most profitable farm enterprises that Alabama farmers can engage in.

A. W. Jones, API extension marketing specialist, says that during the marketing season just complete the sale of their 30 and 40 cents and wool for more than 30 cents per pound. The South Alabama Wool Growers Association at Girmole, serving six Alabama counties and a smaller area in Mississippi, has just completed the sale of their 1948 clip amounting to 30,000 pounds. A large part of this wool graded white and sold for 52 and one-half cents a pound.

Jones admits that the sheep one sees traveling throughout the state and the number appearing in a statistical table seem insignificant. However, he says the profits they consistently return their owners, year after year justify an expanded sheep program in the state.

While the world's sheep population is on a downward trend and since flocks are at the lowest level since we began numbering them in 1869, Jones believes a farmer would do well to include sheep in his farm program.

WINTER READY TO PLANT
GET READY TO PLANT
WINTER COVER CROPS
Farmers who plan to have cover crops next winter have a job to do right now.

This job is making sure of a supply of seed and fertilizer. Commercial nitrogen is expected to be short again next year. More legumes to be turned under next spring is the farmer's best bet to have higher yields.

WILL BEAR LONGER
Tomatoes, okra and other long-bearing season crops will hold up better if late-dressed with five pounds of mixed fertilizer and a pint of nitrate of soda, or equal, to 100 feet of row.

Test the ingredients of a salad bowl lightly but thoroughly, so that each leaf of each ingredient is coated with dressing before the salad is served.

About People And Things

Smile Of The Week

Tommie Thompson reports that the biggest smile of the week was on the face of Dr. Ringsdorf when he saw him at the hospital in Enterprise Tuesday morning. Dr. Ringsdorf had been in the hospital for 6 weeks and was scheduled to come home that afternoon.

The Bonneau-Jeter ambulance went to Enterprise Tuesday afternoon and brought the doctor home. He stood the trip nicely and says he feels better than he has in a long time. His physician made an optimistic report of his condition, which is good news to his multitude of friends.

Another broad smile was the face of Mr. Thompson. He had carried Mrs. Thompson to the hospital for a check-up, fearful of a serious operation. Her doctor, however, reported that there was nothing wrong with her.

New Banker Arrives

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Stanford, of Pineapple, Ala., have moved to Elba and are at home in the apartment in the home of Miss Gladys Clark on the hill east of the river bridge. Mr. and Mrs. Stanford were married about June 1st, after which he took a course at Auburn before accepting a position with Elba Exchange Bank.

Mr. Whitman said he caught 60 snappers and 2 grouper, all the fish weighing about 150 pounds. One of the snappers weighed 12 pounds and another weighed 10 pounds. He hooked the 12 pounder in the eye instead of the mouth.

Death Comes To Rev. Willis At Kinston
Rev. W. J. Willis, of Kinston community, died Tuesday, July 27, and was buried at Kinston Wednesday, July 28. Funeral services were held in Kinston Wednesday afternoon, and the high esteem in which he was held, especially by the preaching profession was shown by the fact that about 20 preachers of various denominations attended the funeral. Many Elba friends attended the funeral in spite of the rain and bad weather.

Rev. Willis was a noted Sacred Harp singer and the annual W. J. Willis singing held in Kinston every April has been for years one of the outstanding events of this section.

We were unable to obtain detailed data of Rev. Willis' death, but hope some friend of his will furnish an appropriate obituary in time for next week's publication.

Redbirds Whitewash Luverne; Lose To Dozier 8 to 6

Play In Dozier Today, New Brockton At Nelson Field Sun.

Elba's Redbirds were in fine spirits last Thursday afternoon. They had their ace pitcher, Mutt Ward, and they played like champions against the league-leading Luverne team at Nelson Field. Mutt, who has been the best of the best in the Tri-C league was in his usual good form and held the Greashaw sluggers well in check. They collected 5 safeties off his offerings, but they were too well scattered to be effective. He received perfect support from his teammates.

An outstanding fielding play came from Roy English, first baseman, for the birds, leaped far over the fence and caught a high pop foul to retire the heavy hitting Muechly, much to the latter's disgust. Sparking outfield catches were made by Maddox and Plant.

Attending these tournaments, scheduled below, will give every farmer an opportunity to see and hear what is being done at the station to help farmers produce more and better livestock and crops on his individual farm.

Mr. Speed urges every farmer to visit the station as follows: Thursday, July 29th, 9:00 a. m. Veteran farmers. Thursday, July 29, 2:00 p. m. Veteran farmers. Friday, July 30, 9:00 a. m. Veteran farmers. Friday, July 30, 2:00 p. m. Non-veteran farmers from beats 2, 3, 4, 5, 15, 18 and 22.

Tuesday, August 10, 10:00 a. m. Negro farmers from all over the county.

County agent Speed says all farmers are to go directly from their homes to the experiment station in Headland.

Send It To Berlin

President Truman, in his civil rights program seems to think that under his personal supervision, whites and blacks can live together harmoniously in the South. If he is that good about bringing on understanding and happiness, we wish he would turn a little of it on Berlin where the story of the Americans and the Russians seems to be suffering for a happy ending.

South Will Be The Goat

Seems that the South is to be made the goat again. President Truman calls a special session of Congress to ask for housing and price legislation, knowing full well it can't be accomplished. Their failure to enact the measures could have been used in Mr. Truman's campaign to put Congress in bad with some of the doubtful (if any) states, however, Mr. Truman didn't catch the Republicans asleep. They beat him to the punch by bringing up an anti-poll tax bill, which is just in line with the song President Truman has been singing, but a piece of legislation that is almost sure to bring on a filibuster, and Congress can waste a couple of weeks and adjourn without marring the reputation of the Republican Congressmen. Instead of Truman being able to point to the Republicans as being to blame for not passing housing and price control legislation, the Republicans can point out the Southern Democrats as being the ones who gummed up the works and prevented anything from being accomplished.

Thus both sides are using the South as a wedge to pry votes from other sections of the country and neither side seems to give two whoops whether they get any votes in the South or not.

Sport Shirts

Since the shirt factory opened up here we have been wearing sport shirts. They are much cooler and we could enjoy them even more if we could get up enough courage to wear them with the tail out. Somehow, though, we just can't do it. When we were little and started to school or to a party, the last admonition we received from Mama was to keep our shirttail in. A shirttail showing ranked close to the unpardonable sin. Of course Mama told us many other things not to do, but looking back now, this is the only one we haven't done. In one way, at least, we have remained an obedient son.

Trials Of An Editor

An editor was sitting at his desk one day when a man entered the office with his brow clouded with thunder. Fiercely seizing a chair, he slammed his hat down on the table and sat down.

"Are you the editor?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Can you read and write?"

"Of course."

"Read that then," he said, thrusting at the editor an envelope with an inscription on it.

"That's not a B, that's an S," said the man.

"Well it looks like 'Salt for Dinners' or 'Soul for Sinners'."

"No Sir," said the man "It's not. That's my name — Samuel Bunnery! I knew you couldn't read. I've called to see you about that poem of mine you printed the other day entitled 'The Surcease of Sorrow'."

"I don't remember it," said the editor. "Of course you don't remember it, because it went under the villainous name of 'Smearcase Tomorrow'."

"A blunder of the compositor, I suppose."

"Yes, Sir, and that is what I am here to see you about. The way in which the poem was mutilated was scandalous. I have not slept a night since. It exposes me to derision. People think me a fool." (The editor kept silent.) "Let me show you," said the man, "the first line, when I wrote it, read this way, 'Lying by a weeping willow, underneath a gentle slope.' This is beautiful and poetic! But how did your sheet represent it to the public? Lying to a weeping willow, I induced her to elope. A weeping widow, mind you, a weeping widow! Oh! This is too much!"

It is hard, Sir, very hard," said the editor.

"Then take the fifth verse. In the original manuscript it said — plain as day — 'Take away the jingling money, it is only glittering dross.' In the printed form you make me say, 'Take away the tinkling money, put some flies in for the boss.' I feel like attacking somebody with your fire shovel. But oh, look at the sixth verse. I wrote, 'I am weary of the tossing of the ocean as it heaves' and when I opened your paper, I saw the lines transformed into, 'I am wearying out my trousers till they're open at the knees.' I thought that was taking an inch too far. I fancy that I have a right to do up that compositor. Where is he?"

"He is out just now," said the editor, "come in tomorrow."

I will," said the poetically inclined individual, "and I'll come armed."

Moral: Write your notices, articles and other items plainly and do not use abbreviations.

Alabama Farmers Profit From Program

Thousands of Alabama woodland owners have been learning more about profit opportunities, through the "more trees for Alabama" project initiated by the Alabama forestry Council last January.

So reported W. R. Sizemore, project director, to the semi-annual meeting of the council, held in Montgomery July 20th.

"Through public spirited cooperation of newspapers, theatres, radio stations and hundreds of individuals, the story of opportunities in tree growing has been broadcast to the entire state," Sizemore said. "Since then, we have been conducting an intensive program of practical demonstration and forestry schools throughout the state, and this will continue until every landowner has an opportunity to learn how to care for his woods."

"More trees for Alabama" was launched, Sizemore pointed out, to help landowners realize more from their wooded areas and to assure a continuous flow of raw materials to Alabama's 3,000 wood-using plants.

Highlights of Sizemore's report show that:

Forty-eight field demonstration schools attended by more than 2,500 people have been held in 25 counties.

Five intensive training schools attended by 132 have been conducted.

An instructional filmstrip on forestry practices has been shown to nearly 34,000 people.

More than 500,000 persons have seen a short motion picture on the subject.

More field demonstrations are scheduled for 35 additional counties during August.

"A campaign of this type has to continue forever," the report said. "Essential to its success has been the work of more than one thousand Alabamians, organized into county committees. Their work and the assistance given by forestry industries and public agencies is chiefly responsible for the advances now being made in Alabama forestry."

F. Ray Weston, Hollingsworth and Whitney Co., Mobile, presided over the meeting. His newly elected officers are: O. C. Medley, State conservationist; Soil and Conservation Service chairman, Ivan R. Martin, Extension Forester, secretary-treasurer, The Foresters are R. F. Weston, chairman, and Donald J. Morris, secretary-treasurer.

Newly elected members of the council are George I. Gans, Agricultural Experiment Station; Ivan R. Martin, Extension Forester; P. O. Davis, Extension Service director; and John Raeburn, Coosa River Newspaper Co.

How To Grow Good Winter Grazing Crops

To succeed with a mixture of oats and vetch or oats and Austrian peas, plant seed on good, well-prepared cropland. Seed may be planted in cotton or corn middles or after a hay crop.

J. C. Lowery, API extension agronomist, says to plant a mixture of oats and vetch or oats and Austrian peas about August 20 to September 10 in the Tenn. valley and on Sand Mountain and September 15 to early October in South Alabama.

Lowery recommends that the mixture be fertilized in one of the following ways: Apply 700 pounds of 10-7-10 10 to 14 days before planting and top dress with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda, or 75 pounds of ammonium nitrate, or apply 500 pounds of 0-14-10, 10 to 14 days before

The rate of seeding suggested by Mr. Lowery is 20 to 25 pounds of smooth hairy vetch, or 30 pounds of Willamette vetch, or Austrian peas, plus two to three bushels of oats, per acre.

"The two winter grazing mixtures may be planted with a grain drill, one-row planter, 3-row planter of broadcast," Lowery adds.

Hoover Ovation

The ovation given elder statesman Herbert Hoover at Philadelphia Tuesday night must have been immensely gratifying to the only living former president.

It was Mr. Hoover's unhappy fate to be president when the great depression got started. Mr. Hoover, like most everyone else, was helpless in the whirlpool of the world wide fiasco and the American voters resoundingly kicked him in the deghouse in 1932.

He had never fully emerged, though his stature had been growing through the years. He has continued to perform public services, and he has sought steadily (and colorlessly) to make a better world.

As the great stock market crash of 1929 faded into history, it becomes increasingly clear that Mr. Hoover was not personally to blame for the debacle. It was a worldwide trend, which was caused partially by some American policies of the twenties.

Mr. Hoover's efforts to combat the depression were not effective. But with tremendous sentiment mounting against him, Mr. Hoover was probably little he could do to turn the tide.

In any event, he took his licking in 1932 like a man and continued to try to be a good citizen. During the crisis of the war he responded to a call from President Roosevelt and assisted the country. He, too, has served under President Truman.

This year as he nears 75 he was given a tremendous ovation at the Republican National Convention, which must have made his old heart feel good. He has

One Of Five Ideas Could Mean Death On Farm

It is National Farm Safety Week, but it might well be called National Farm Accident Week.

Do you know that one out of every 10 farmers will suffer a disabling accident in 1948 unless something is done to reduce farm accidents? During your dinner hour every day, two farm accidents will be accidentally killed and 205 injured. That means an average of more than one farm person killed by accident every day in every state, according to the records of the National Safety Council.

In case these facts frighten you, Miss Ella Majors, APT extension specialist in child care and family life, says that the way to play safe is to avoid all the five "accident inviting ideas" they are:

1. The "other fellow" idea. Most of us assume that the accident will happen to the other fellow. (2) Your number's up! Such attitude leaves no room for individual clear thinking or good judgement. (3) The "law of averages." (4) The price of progress. (5) The "spirit of '76." Many people think the courage and daring of our forefathers in risking all their ideals and purposes is an American tradition to be preserved. It is, but remember his, they learned to fight Indian style rather than take the heavy losses incurred in open fighting.

Miss Majors says that farm accidents can be reduced by avoiding the five "accident inviting" ideas not only during National Farm Safety Week but throughout the years to come.

REDBIRDS DEFEAT LUYERNE

on right and left hand batter. Paul Wise started on the mound for Elba, but complained of a sore arm and had trouble locating the plate. He was relieved at the start of the eighth by Paul Smart with the score at 6 all. The score remained tied until the tenth when Dozier put two runs across to send up the ball game.

A double header between Elba and Dozier at Dozier was rained out Thursday, July 29. Elba had scored three runs in the first inning and nobody had been retired when heavy rain forced cancellation of the game.

Elba will face New Brockton at Nelson field Sunday and at New Brockton Thursday.

Birthday Barbecue

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Deal entertained a number of friends and relatives at the Elba Pool Thursday afternoon, July 29, in honor of Mr. Deal's birthday. A delicious barbecue dinner was served. Those present were:

Darty and daughter, Perry Mae; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Steindorf; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lee and daughter, Marilee; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deal and daughter, Rosa; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes and daughter, Susanne; Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Deal and daughter, Carolyn; and Mrs. Bools Deal and daughter, Charlotte.

Flying Hoofs

THE mule had just balked in the road when the doctor came by. The farmer asked the physician for something to start the mule. The doctor reached down into his medicine case, and gave the animal some powder. The mule switched his tail, tossed his head and started on a mad gallop down the road.

The farmer looked at the flying animal.

"How much did that medicine cost, Doc?" he asked.

"Oh about 15 cents," said the physician.

"Well, give me a quarter's worth, quick! I've got to catch that mule!"

EXPERIENCE

Motorist: "It couldn't possibly have been my fault. I've been driving for 15 years."

Pedestrian: "Well, I've been walking for more than 65 years."

The Other Half

The former United States Senator James E. Watson, recalling his days as a struggling lawyer, related an amusing story about one of his first cases. His client was a rambling old Irish woman whose unpredictable and irascible actions bedeviled not only the august court, but her own sweating attorney as well.

The old lady had only one lawyer, while the opposition had two, an advantage which seemed to weigh exceedingly heavy on her mind. Watson was not greatly concerned about the outcome, and sought to reassure his client, but without avail.

"Mary," he finally demanded, "what on earth do you want another lawyer for?"

"Faith, and you have the nerve to ask me that!" she shrieked in tones which attracted the attention of the court and spectators alike. "Well, you see, on their side when wan is talkin' the other wan is a-thinkin', while on our side when yez are talkin' there's no wan a-thinkin'!"

TRUTH COMES TO LIGHT

She: "You look very downcast." He: "Yes, my wife has been away for six weeks, and she's just come back."

She: "And does that make you so unhappy?"

He: "Well, I told her I spent all my evenings at home—and today the light bill came. It's for 50 cents."

He's All Wet

An officer asked a tough "old army" sergeant to look after a plot of grass in front of the mess hall. The sergeant promptly appointed a private to water the plot each afternoon.

One day, during a terrific thunderstorm, the sergeant stormed into the barracks and caught the private doing bunk fatigue.

"It's 3 o'clock," roared the sergeant, "and you're supposed to be out there watering the grass!"

"But sergeant," the private pleaded, "look at the thunderstorm."

"That's no excuse," the sergeant bellowed. "Haven't you got a raincoat?"

SUPERSALESMAN

Businessman: "What do you do with all those pictures you paint?" Artist: "I sell them, sir."

Businessman: "Well, name your terms, my man. I've been looking for a salesman like you for years."

Famous Tenant

In the history class of a New York school the teacher was discussing the life of George Washington. She called the attention of the children to a picture of Mount Vernon in their history books.

"That," she said, "is the house in which George Washington lived."

One of the boys looked at the teacher questioningly.

"What floor?" he asked.
